I just love New Student Orientation week!

Round and round we go!

Who's in there?

This is fun!

Hi kids, we're your New Student Orientation leaders.

NEW STUDENT ORIENTATION IS:

- New friends
- New food
- Entertainment
- A friendly game of tug-of-war
- Mud fights
- Panty raids
- Dancing
- An egg toss
- Lectures
- Group discussions
- Boat ride on Lake Michigan

Bluejay supporters are always there when needed.

Did you see that?

Victor Johnson gains against Millikin part of his season high 94 yds. in 20-10 Jay win over 3-time defending champs.

Tom Cervenka and Jeff Reher are ready for anything.

After one of the day's five interceptions, defensive backs Eddie Webb and Dave Buddle congratulate each other as Bob Specchio looks on.

A diving mid-air catch by all-conference selection Steve Finch put the Jays in scoring position.

Before being forced out of action by a recurring ankle injury, senior George Donald led the attack through Milliken's defensive line.

Union Board is the title which could be named "Student Activities Board." It is the following programming or media committee chairpersons that make up the Board: Athletic Life, Black Affairs, Cultural Life, The Elms, The Leader, Recreational Life, Religious Life, Social Life, and W.R.S.E. Each Committee is represented at the Union Board meetings which enable the working Chairpersons to interact and inform the others of their plans and discuss problems that are reflective of the Board's programming. Chairperson positions are obtained by applying in November of the academic year and being interviewed for that particular position. Each chairperson is responsible for effective programming, that is, doing that which would promote student interest and create educational experiences along with concern for financial limits. Budgeting for each committee is made possible by the total amount of student activity fees paid by each full-time day student.

BLACK AFFAIRS

As with the past years, The Black Affairs Committee has built a bond strengthened by appreciation, cooperation and love.

During the year we've shared many educational and enlightening events such as: Black History Month, Onyx, Our Annual Fashion Show, and a very special visit from Larone Bennett, Jr., Senior Editor of Johnsons Publishing Company.

In the fall we complete the year with Onyx, at the Americana Congress, a tour of the Sears Tower and a visit from Cicely Tyson.

The Black Affairs Organization is open to all students and we sincerely look forward to you taking an active part in the upcoming events.

Being an institution of higher learning, Elmhurst is concerned with cultural enlightenment as well as intellectual growth. The Cultural Life Committee of the E.C. Union Board programs with an eye towards broadening the cultural horizons of the students offering them an experience in many areas of the arts. The Committee is composed of students and faculty. Some of the programs for the 1980-81 year included: Ralph Nader, Alger Hiss, Betty Williams, an opera Factory, and a trip into Chicago to see the play, "Evita."

SCOOPS FROM THE ELMS It has come to the close of the year and I would like to thank a few of the people who have contributed to the construction of the yearbook. To begin with, I would like to credit Bill Cwiklinski, the head photographer, for the fine job he has done with photography. He has done much hard work and last minute picture taking, not to mention the hours he spent in the dark room developing pictures. Other photographers I would like to thank would be Margaret Behr and Mark Ruffolo, Pat Battistini (who has done an exceptional job) and Jeff Miller who joined the staff later in the year. Without pictures from Kara Flemming we would not have had New Student Orientation Coverage; the "Leader" has also supplied us with pictures. Tony Bylak took candid as well as Paul Mettewie from Public Relations. The Public Relations office workers were also very generous with pictures. Through Public Relations, I contacted Herb Jenkins for F.O.F. candid. A special Thank You goes to Mr. Jim Trotta for all his time and dedication to taking and developing not only sports candid but just about anything else I needed. He was definitely an asset to our staff.

L. To R. Assistant Editor PATTY HAND and Editor LORI DALESANDRO.

The Yearbook Staff has had a very rough year. I became editor at the end of 1980 which is unusual because the editor should have been chosen at the beginning of the year so the next term could be organized. When I came in office, there was no staff and no photographers and most of all, no organization. Thanks to Gail Brinkmeier, who has been more than an adviser but a friend, Mark Petersen, Mrs. Phyllis Iovino, support from the Union Board, the women at the Union Desk, and most of all, people who have contributed pictures—there is a yearbook.

Assistant Editor Patty Hand helped in more ways than I can explain. She worked on the Student section, typed and organized the Senior Index, assisted with ideas for several lay-outs and contacted many faculty and administration for appointments and pictures. Elizabeth Haneman, also Assistant Editor, along with Patty, worked throughout the school year and summer on the student sections and contacting people for information and identification of pictures as well as other miscellaneous tasks. Deirdre Mitchell, Cheryl Vainisi, Jamey Kokenes, Chris Stoner, Karen Waszak, Dorothy Skowron and Ellen Sherwin have contributed time in sorting pictures as well as sending notes to students and faculty. Working on lay-outs were Debbie Springer, Barb Ostrowski, Ken Mosley, and Kelly Beck. Kelly has done a fine job with many of the sport's lay-outs. I am sorry if there are any names that I haven't mentioned, but I did appreciate all work that was contributed.

As an individual branch of the Union Board, the Religious Life Committee planned activities which were intended to enhance the religious element of the students' campus experience. Not only were the students the main focus of RLC activities, but students planned and participated in these activities as well. Some of these activities included weekly Chapel Services, a Christian rock concert, and sponsorship of a lecture series focusing on Judeo-Christian topics. Through these activities and others, the Religious Life Committee proved itself to be a viable organization on campus by providing students with the opportunity to express their faith and experience other faiths in a practical and meaningful way.

THE SOCIAL LIFE COMMITTEE strives to provide an enjoyable social scene for both commuters and resident students. Coffee-houses, dances, dinner entertainment, movies and concerts are all part of Social Life as well as the traditional Homecoming and Festival of Fools weekend's activities. Social Life's activities provide the great escape from working and studying, and allows students to meet and be with one another outside of the academic setting.

MARK GRUHLKE STATION MANAGER

This was a year of uncertainty and optimism for WRSE. With a brand new board that is ready to face the challenges, the station is entering a new era. Recent F.C.C. rulings have forced us to increase our power to 100 watts. At the time of this printing, the F.C.C. has still not ruled on our application for 100 watts stereo. Pending the rulings, the college then reviewed the situation regarding what improvements would be needed.

In January, a new executive board was selected for the next term of office. The board consists of Station Manager Mark Gruhlke, Program Director David Ross, Chief Engineer Tom Smith, News Director John Lapinski, and Business Manager Paul Nugarus.

Among the major improvements in the station's programming was the addition of Matt Mimplitz as Sports Director. Matt did a fine job broadcasting the Elmhurst College Bluejay's football and basketball games. Our programming now includes specialty shows from 6-9:00 p.m. which include blues, jazz, classical and more. Community service programming was presented by two radio series: Barry Richerts, "Groups In Action" and Linda Eaton's "Awareness" were presented as a way to meet the community's needs.

This year and the coming years will mean many changes for WRSE. We hope these changes will mean a better radio station in the coming years.

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority is a National Greek letter society organized at Howard University in Washington, D.C. in January, 1908. Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority serves to provide an enriching social and intellectual aspect of college life.

Alpha Kappa Alpha has an active membership of more than ten thousand women; with membership located in thirty six of the fifty states, Liberia, West Africa, The Bahamas, and West Germany.

Alpha Kappa Alpha represents one of those positive life forces in our society with which individuals consciously or unconsciously continually seek to be identified. Our purpose is to cultivate and encourage high scholastic and ethical standards to promote unity and friendship among college women, to study and help allienate problems concerning girls and women, to maintain a progressive interest in college life, and to be of service to all mankind.

Alpha Kappa has been active on the Elmhurst College campus since 1977. Activities include dances, bake sales, fashion show and volunteer services yearly at hospitals, schools, and churches.

ALPHA PHI

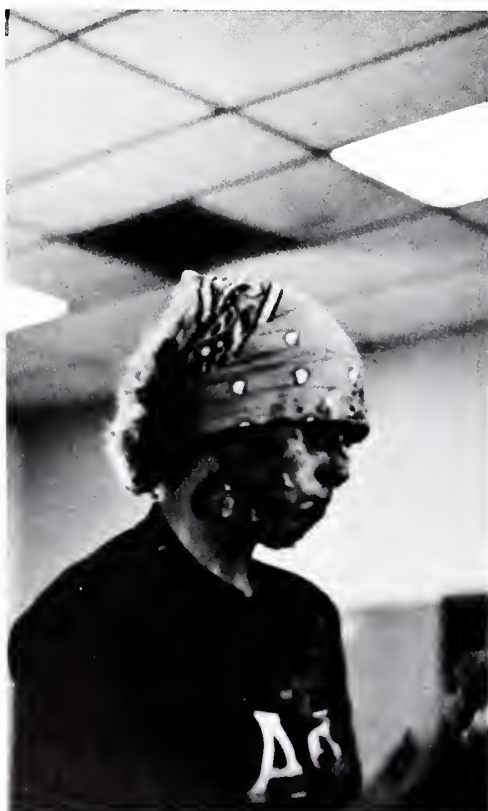

Alpha Phi is an International Women's Fraternity which was brought to the Elmhurst College campus in the Spring of 1979. The Zeta Xi Chapter was installed on February 2, 1980, and has been expanding ever since. Besides weekly chapter meetings, we participate in campus and community activities. Our membership is composed of commuter and resident students who are involved in such campus groups as choir, theatre, athletics, intramurals, pom-pon squad, RA staff, student orientation leaders, student government, and in the honor societies of Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Tau Delta, and Theta Alpha Phi. Alpha Phi has also worked in the community by donating blood at Elmhurst Hospital and selling lollipops to raise money for our philanthropy, the Heart Fund. On campus, we serve as hostesses for school functions, sponsored a dance with TKE for a leukemia patient, bake sales, a spring formal, Halloween and Christmas parties within our group, and recognize faculty, administration, and other school organizations as often as possible.

THE HONOR SOCIETY IN AMERICAN COLLEGES

The idea which underlies the honor societies in American colleges and universities is threefold. They exist primarily to recognize the attainment of scholarship of a superior quality. In the second place, a few societies recognize the development of leadership qualities, character and good campus citizenship in addition to a strong secondary scholarship record. In the third place, and to the degree that they make this recognition a thing to be coveted, they encourage the production of superior scholarship and leadership.

STANGER

Stanger Hall is the all-women's residence hall at Elmhurst College.

It is an active dorm with much participation in intramurals, campus organizations, and dorm activities. Individual floors are close-knit, enjoying soaps together, celebrating birthdays or painting cartoon characters on lounge walls. Stanger Hall has a dorm council which plans activities for the hall. Fall 1980 activities included an All Campus Craft Fair sponsored by Stanger and a Dorm-Wide Halloween Party. Stanger Hall also co-sponsored an All-Campus Western Dance along with Union Board. Spring 1981 activities included a Friday the 13th suspense movie (March 13) sponsored by Stanger and Dinkmeyer, an All Campus Mother-Daughter Tea (April 12). Stanger Dorm Council also sponsored a "Little Peoples Weekend" for residents and their younger siblings. Dorm discussions on the Presidential election, stress reduction, and ERA were also enjoyed in the dorm. From pixie parties to serious discussions—all are enjoyed in Stanger Hall.

The Elmhurst College Choir is a group of more than forty singers under the direction of Paul Westermeyer. Through the Music Department, students may work toward B.A., B.M., or B.S. degrees with concentrations in Music Education, Music Business, and Piano Pedagogy.

The Elmhurst College Choir consists of students from the Music Department as well as other departments, chosen by audition. The Choir performs a wide variety of music drawn from many styles and periods. This year their Spring program is planned to include music of Pergolesi, Vaughan Williams, Fetler, Ferguson, Bruckner, Pfautsch and other composers. A smaller group often sings madrigals as part of the concert.

Last Fall the Choir took a tour to Michigan. This year, as always, numerous concerts and services are scheduled for the Chicago area. The Spring tour will take the singers through Ohio and Pennsylvania to the Philadelphia area.

The Choir's director, Paul Westermeyer, chairs the Music Department at Elmhurst. He holds degrees from Elmhurst, Lancaster Seminary, the School of Music at Union Seminary, and the University of Chicago. His special area of research has been church music and worship, particularly among Lutheran and Reformed bodies in Pennsylvania during the nineteenth century.

The kickers in action against DePaul in the first game of the season. E.C. surprised everyone with a 7 to 3 Victory.

HOCKEY CLUB

At the face-off against Moraine Valley, senior co-captain Dave Hood must combine power and poise to emerge victoriously.

A deft move by the Elmhurst goalie prevents the goal and insures yet another win for the Bluejays.

Flanked by three opponents, the Elmhurst stick handler gets off the shot.

By intently focusing on the approaching puck, the Elmhurst goalie can deflect it from the net.

After stopping the goal, the action reverses as the team heads down ice.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

1980-1981

The Men's Basketball team had a good season! Jim Cooney and Henry Ellis will be lost to graduation. Elmhurst College has eight returning lettermen. The basketball program has come from the bottom to the middle of the conference, and with some recruiting could go to even greater heights.

Despite the presence of a Carthage defender, Keith Brozek is able to put up the lay-up.

For the first time in years, a pre-season football favorite defied the odds and grabbed the conference laurels. When the polls came out on September 4, the Bluejays were more dismayed than honored by their opponents confidence. In the past, the ranking has been more of a curse than a blessing taunting teams with promises of grandeur, then cruelly dropping them in the celler. This year was different, even unique. This year the Bluejays grabbed the proverbial bull by the horns and came out a winner.

Prior to the last game, the possibility of winning the title seemed remote: two heart breaking losses earlier in the season to Carthage and Augustana had all but eliminated the Jays from contention. Only a loss by Illinois Wesleyan could put the Bluejays on top. It seemed an impossibility, but early in the fourth quarter of the last game the announcement was made: a struggling Milikin squad had upset the Titans, thus boosting Elmhurst into first place. As the news spread throughout the bleachers and onto the sidelines, bedlam broke loose. Player's converged on the field for an imprompt celebration. Eventually, play resumed, but the 51-16 victory was anticlimatic after learning we were the champions.

Leading the Jays to their second conference championship ever were All-Americans George Donald and Tom Foote. Concluding his collegiate career with six PAT's and a field goal. Foote tied the All-time CCIW kick scoring mark formally held solely by Wheaton's Bob Unruh. In addition, perennial All-Conference choice and two time All-American, George Donald signed with the Atlanta Falcons. Other first team All-Conference choices were sophomore quarterback Craig Groot, junior wide receiver Steve Finch, and senior co-captain and center Frank Enda.

It seems only yesterday that Elmhurst College was perpetually the conference doormat. Five short years ago a struggling Bluejay team managed only one conference win and a 2-7 record. The transition has been swift, but not unwelcome—already fans are whispering of national championships.

WHO'S BEHIND THE JAYS?

With ten years of head coaching experience to his credit and a 66-28-1 record, Tom Beck and his staff led the Bluejays to their fourth consecutive winning season. Offensively, Al Hanke, an eight year veteran at Elmhurst, directed the back field, while Al Ackerman, a graduate of Ohio University now in his second year with the Bluejays, took charge of the line. The receivers were drilled by Monmouth graduate Randy Rueckert.

Defensively, the Jays were led by defensive co-ordinator and back field coach Charlie Goehl. The line was coached by Bud Mohas in his first year as an Elmhurst assistant and John Riehle, an Oak Park teacher, instructed the linebackers. In addition, former EC players, Mike Tice and Dave Sprik, assisted the Jays.

Four year veterans Jane Trotta and Sheri Wagner along with Diane Worthem recorded statistics for the Jays.

With headphones in place, assistant coach Randy Rueckert receives critical information from the coaches stationed above.

MEET HEAD COACH TOM BECK With Coach Beck at the helm, the Bluejays have turned into perennial CCIW powers winning 27 of their past 33 contests and conference championships during two of the past three years.

While the offense takes a breather, defensive coordinator Charlie Goehl watches intensely as his unit tries to regain possession.

FACULTY

THE ART DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT AND FACILITIES

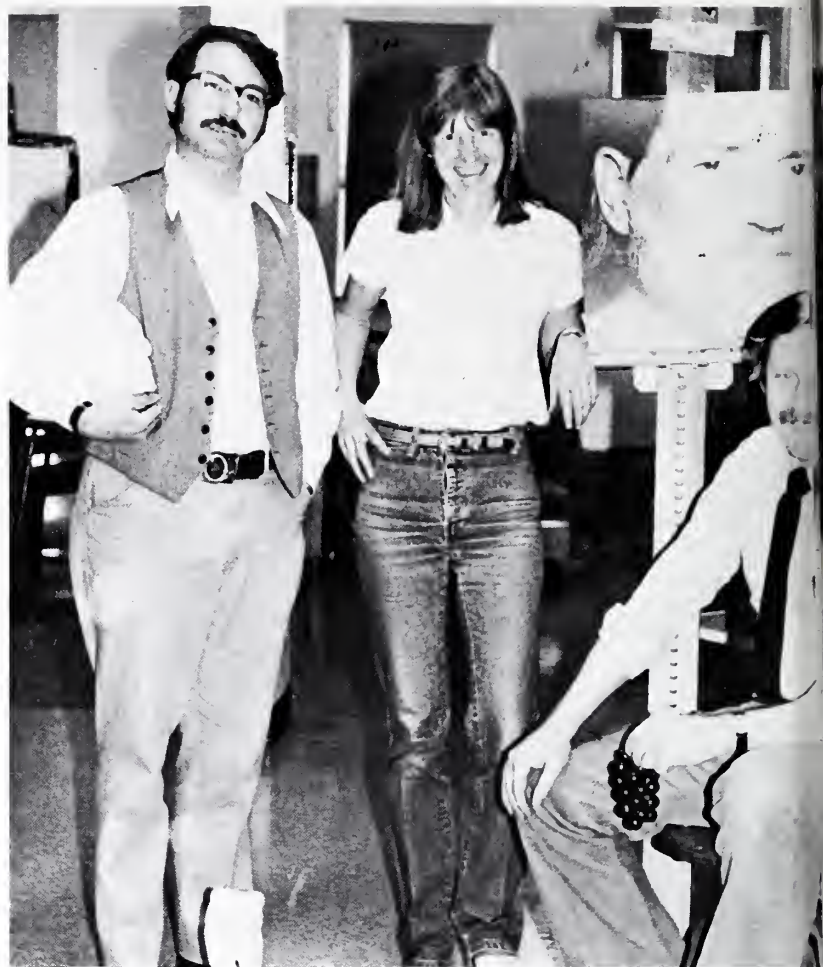

The Art Department at Elmhurst College offers courses in both studio art and art history. Modern new facilities located on the top and bottom floors of Old Main feature studios for drawing, painting, photography, printmaking, sculpture, art education, art history, critiques, discussion and advising. The painting studio is exceptionally spacious and skylit, and the photography studio has facilities for a complete black and white darkroom. The sculpture studio is equipped for modeling and casting, welding, woodworking, and assemblage. The printmaking studio provides facilities for etching, aquatint, mezzotint, woodcut, collography and serigraphy. These courses, in addition to courses in art history, provide the art student with a broad background in basic skills and creative sensitivity.

The Department offers a major and a minor in Art and a major in Art Education. The faculty includes four full-time instructors, each a recognized, professionally active artist.

YOUR FUTURE IN ART

Department graduates work in many art fields: theatre and costume design, illustration, advertising, packaging, printing, television, management, teaching from elementary school through college, sales, marketing, art therapy and arts administration.

A department graduate is also qualified to enter graduate school for the Master of Fine Arts or Master of Art Education degrees.

THE DEPARTMENT AND FACILITIES

The Biology Department at Elmhurst College offers the student an opportunity for varied classroom, laboratory and independent research experiences. The biology student at Elmhurst is particularly fortunate in that the College is located within a short distance of outstanding collections of animals and plants that are available in nearby zoos, museums, conservatories, and arboretums. The Department's favorable student-faculty ratio foster a highly personalized type of education.

The Department occupies the first floor of a modern science building that was built in 1966. It includes five large laboratories, two of which are all-purpose and other three are designed for physiology, anatomy and microbiology. In addition to these laboratories, there is a smaller laboratory for students doing independent research, a photographic darkroom, and a student lounge. Five small laboratories connected to faculty offices are frequently shared with students doing research directed by the staff member. An animal room and greenhouse are located on the roof of the building, and an arboretum has been developed on the campus which, at present, contains over 400 species and varieties of woody plants. An additional resource for in-depth human anatomy research is the Biology Department's cadaver.

Missing: Dr. Chatman.

CHEMISTRY FACULTY: Eugene N. Losey, Ph.D.; Robert L. Glogovsky, Ph.D.; Chairperson, Charles E. Ophardt, Ph.D.; John C. Ganchoff, Ph.D.

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

The program of study in Business Administration seeks to provide a broad education preparing the student for responsible citizenship and leadership roles in business and society. This implies the development of basic knowledge and skills that are widely transferable and applicable throughout a lifetime. Emphasis is placed on developing within the student the means to form sound value judgments and to demonstrate social responsibility. The curriculum path leads to a Bachelor of Science degree.

The student interested in majoring in Business Administration has a number of options. The Department offers a basic curriculum leading to a major in Business Administration. This program contains requirements in Business Administration, Economics, and Mathematics. It is the preferred curriculum for those intending to enroll in an MBA (Masters of Business Administration) program after graduation.

The Department offers specialized majors in the following functional areas: Accounting, Economics, Finance, Health and Hospital Services Management, Human Resources Management, Information Systems, International Business, Management, and Marketing.

THE CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

The mission of Chemistry at Elmhurst College transcends the training of professional chemists. Chemistry, the science of the metamorphoses of matter, is important in the intellectual lives of many students seeking a liberal education.

The education of chemistry students at both introductory and advanced levels is intended to reflect the relationship of chemistry with other disciplines and to be responsive to the impact of chemical science on society.

THE ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

An important goal of the Department of Economics is a liberal arts college, regardless of a student's vocational plans, is to help prepare students for responsible citizenship. The large economic role of government today makes economic literacy essential if we are to intelligently exercise our democratic responsibilities. Economics should be very valuable for anyone who is interested in understanding and developing solutions for the most urgent and critical issues in society today.

Economic knowledge is a vital part of a liberal arts education. It deals with issues such as inflation, unemployment, income inequality, pollution, strikes, why some nations are poor and others rich, and the factors determining the dollar price of German Marks. Economics is a study of how a society can use its productive resources to best advantage. The courses in the Economics Department at Elmhurst College are designed to develop in the student an understanding of the operation of economic systems through which material needs are satisfied. ECONOMICS FACULTY: Robert C. Eaton, M.S.; Joseph N. Heiney, M.A.; George A. Thoma, Jr., Ph.D.

The Chemistry Department, located in the Science Center, has modern, well-equipped laboratories and an especially wide variety of important chemical instruments, such as spectrophotometers (UV, visible, IR and NMR), gas chromatographs, a mass spectrometer, emission spectroscope and a variety of electro-chemical equipment. All laboratories are available for normal coursework and for special research problems. Access to more elaborate equipment is possible through Argonne National Laboratory.

THE ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT

The curriculum of the English Department includes training in writing and in the appreciation and analysis of English and American Literature, with emphasis also on the literature of Europe and the non-Western World.

English is a pre-professional major. Any student interested in English should consult English: The Pre-Professional Major, published by the Modern Language Association. The pamphlet describes the many career opportunities in the professions, business, and government open to students majoring in English.

YOUR FUTURE IN ENGLISH

Graduates in English pursue a broad range of careers. Many teach on the secondary level; others acquire positions in publishing, journalism, business, and industry. A number of English majors choose graduate school as an alternative to immediate entry into the job market, either for graduate study in English or for professional study such as law or communications.

THE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

THE DEPARTMENT

Collegiate studies in Education consist of courses or subjects which encompass:

- * the diversity among existing schools
- * the methods for improving the performance of school services
- * better methods of teaching
- * developing more effective leaders
- * the methods of utilizing the interests and activities of all kinds of learners
- * ways of improving the cultural levels of all peoples

The Education Department offers a full range of courses to provide an adequate base of ideas, understanding and skills needed by the beginning teacher, with some advanced courses for the post-graduate teacher. Basic programs are provided for the preparation of elementary school teachers, junior and senior high school teachers, special education teachers specializing in learning disabled and behavior disordered children, and for persons who wish to work with preschool and kindergarten programs.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT FACULTY: Elmer B. Jacobs, Chairperson; James Cunningham, Ph.D.; Michael Feldman, Ph.D.; MaryAnn Heindinger, M.S.; Norman L. Hoover, Ph.D.

THE DEPARTMENT OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES

The Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures seeks to give students the ability to communicate in a language other than their own. The study of language fosters interest in different cultures, develops an understanding of the significance of language in human affairs, and promotes self-awareness and self-growth through interaction with the languages and peoples of other cultures.

Majors are offered in French, German and Spanish; elementary and intermediate Italian are also offered. Many of our students have the opportunity to study abroad.

French, with the other modern languages, provides an important dimension to the understanding of man. Learning French means more than acquiring a skill that will be useful while traveling. It introduces one into a world rich in art, literature, fashion or gastronomy; it exposes one to new ways of thought and original points of view; it leads one to more self-awareness and a better understanding of the world situation.

German is the living language of a bustling, economically aggressive, twentieth century country whose cultural roots are deeply intertwined with those of Elmhurst College.

Spanish, the language of nineteen nations on three continents, is of growing importance in the Chicago area. In addition to traditional classes in language, civilization, and literature, students may choose from a number of courses directed at the special needs of travel, business, social work, or the medical profession. Interim travel abroad is offered as well.

Italian classes provide an understanding at the elementary and intermediate level of the language and culture of the birthplace of Dante, Petrarch and the Renaissance.

YOUR FUTURE IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Among the careers open to the language major are the following, most of which are positions taken by recent alumni.

- * Teaching of foreign languages and literatures in schools and colleges
- * Teaching of related fields which require foreign language skills
- * International education
- * Librarianship
- * Government service
- * Airline positions at nearby O'Hare
- * Business positions for firms with international ties
- * Translating
- * Other professions requiring international study, such as theology, natural science, and international law

The Department makes a special effort to keep abreast of turned in career possibilities, and presently foresees increased demand for the following: Positions with Chicago area offices of foreign companies; various duties connected with the needs of Spanish-speaking and other immigrant groups (for example, bilingual education teachers; and teaching English as a second language, both here and abroad, where many regions have a teacher shortage. Students wanting more information on foreign languages and careers should send a written request to the Department.

GEOGRAPHY AND ENVIRONMENTAL PLANNING

THE DEPARTMENT

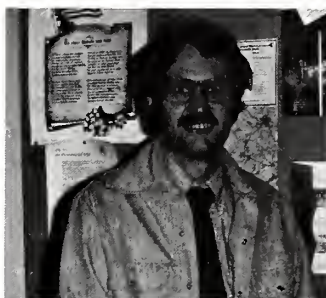

With emphasis on the interactions and relationships between man and his environment, the curriculum in the Department of Geography and Environmental Planning effectively links the natural and social sciences. A considerable range of regional, topical and skills courses provides broad appeal to many students.

Apart from students who pursue a single major in Geography and Environmental Planning, other students, often majoring in business or one of the other social sciences, have found geography a valuable second field of concentration. The versatility of a double major can prove attractive to many employers in today's job market. In this regard, the department, in its advising program, encourages majors to enrich and strengthen their major program of study by selecting, as elective options, appropriate cognate courses in related social science and/or science disciplines. Moreover, the Department of Geography and Environmental Planning actively participates in the interdisciplinary majors in Urban Studies and Transportation Management and in the Interim Field Experience Program where students acquire "on the job" vocational training.

Since geographers and environmental planners are employed in a considerable range of careers, the department seeks to design a curricular program of study based upon each individual student's particular interests and vocational goals. The core of the geography curriculum is organized into three major categories of course offerings: Regional, Topical-Systematic, and Techniques-Skills. All majors, in the interest of achieving a well-balanced program of study, should pursue some course work in each of these general areas.

Dr. Wally Lagerway, Chairperson of the Foreign Language Department.

Dr. Lester Caltvedt, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of German.

Dr. Earl Thompson, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Spanish and Italian. Missing: Jane Carpenter, Ph.D.; Paulette V. Hatmaker, M.A.

GEOGRAPHY DEPARTMENT FACULTY: BACK L. to R. Karl Robert, Ph.D. Chairperson; Robert S. Rouse, M.A. FRONT: John Bohnert, Ph.D.; Paul Ries, Ph.D.; Kenneth R. Brehab, Asst. Prof.

Robert S. Rouse, M.A., Director Transportation Management.

YOUR FUTURE IN GEOGRAPHY

Majors in Geography and Environmental Planning are prepared for a variety of occupations in the rapidly changing contemporary world. Besides preparation for graduate school, other career opportunities include urban, regional, and resource planning; business positions, especially in marketing and transportation; elementary, secondary and college teaching; cartography and remote sensing imagery interpretation; and a broad range of government positions at the federal, state and local level. For students interested in finding out more about career opportunities in geography, the department has available a 50-page brochure entitled Careers in Geography, which is published by the Association of American Geographers.

THE HISTORY DEPARTMENT

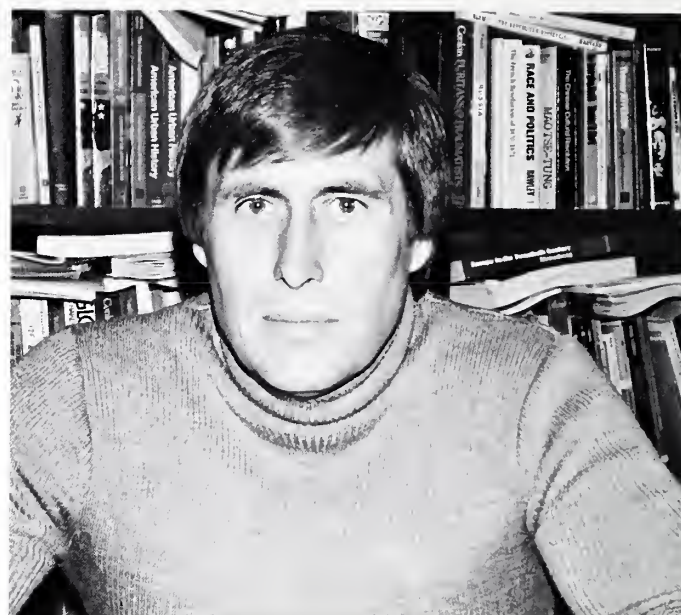

THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of History is dedicated to the concept that the study of history is a vital part of the liberal arts curriculum. It attempts to give the student an analytic method by which he will be able to evaluate events and movements of the past and events and movement of today.

YOUR FUTURE IN HISTORY

Students with a History major are prepared to pursue careers in law, secondary education, journalism (researching, writing), other media (radio, television, films), museum work, business, government service (at the federal, state, or municipal levels), and diplomatic service.

Because the employment outlook varies, depending upon the graduate's particular interest and expertise in a specified area, the student is encouraged to pursue a double major in relation to career aspirations.

HISTORY DEPARTMENT FACULTY: Walter E. Burdick, Jr., Ph.D. Chairperson; Missing; Neal R. Blum, M.A. James W. Mack, B.A.

THE MATHEMATICS DEPARTMENT

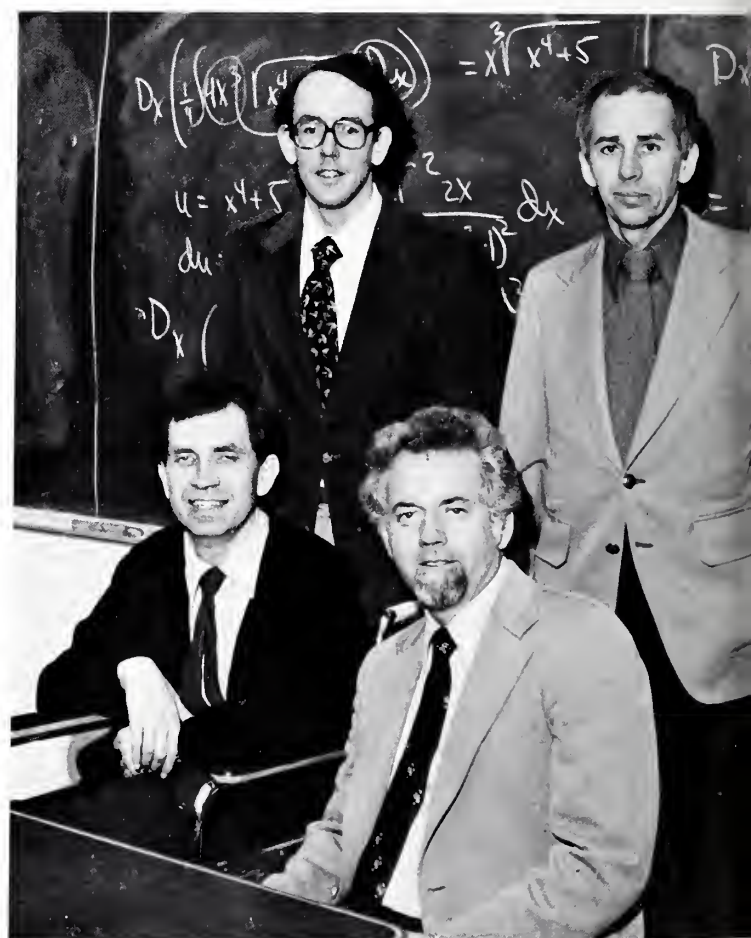

THE DEPARTMENT

The Department offers a strong major in Mathematics which prepares the student for graduate level programs or for a career in teaching or industry.

The Mathematics Department cooperates with the Department of Education to provide courses in the teaching of Mathematics at the secondary level. The Department also offers a joint major in conjunction with the Center for Business and Economics in Management Science (Math/Business).

YOUR FUTURE IN MATHEMATICS

Students trained in Mathematics and Statistics are employed in teaching and research on all levels and in working with physical, biological, social and behavioral scientists, as well as economists, business analysts, and computer scientists. Extensive undergraduate training in Mathematics also serves as an excellent basis for graduate studies in the above areas, as well as such interdisciplinary studies as operations research, information science, and management science, and also as a basis for professional studies in medicine and law.

THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT AND FACILITIES

The faculty and facilities of the Elmhurst College Department of Music are devoted to:

1. Service to the general college student by providing courses which are suitable to their background and which meet the fine arts requirement of the school. All academic music courses fulfill this requirement, although Music 290, Music 291, Music 336, Music 343, Music 344, Music 345 and Music 346 are especially recommended.
2. Service to college students desiring preparation in music education and certification as music teachers.
3. Service to college students wishing to enter a career in music business.
4. Service to college students wishing to enter a career in piano teaching.
5. Service to students contemplating careers and further study as applied teachers and performers, church musicians, therapists, music librarians, composers, musicologists and arts managers.
6. Service to students wishing to pursue certificates in performance or in church music.
7. Service to students who wish to take part in music performing organizations.

The Music Department recently moved to the modern, renovated facilities in Irion Hall, which include band and choir rehearsal rooms, a chamber music recital hall, classrooms, listening facilities, practice and teaching studios and a piano laboratory. A large concert hall and a three manual pipe organ are located in Hammerschmidt Chapel. The Department provides an organ, pianos, harpsichords, and a band and orchestral instruments for students' use. A faculty of twenty-seven members makes up the instructional staff.

YOUR FUTURE IN MUSIC

Students in the Music Department are preparing for opportunities in public school music education, graduate schools, church music, and private teaching. Many students are now preparing for piano studio instruction and music-related business careers. Jobs in the Music Business field include publishing, manufacturing, arts management, sales, booking, and recording.

THE DEICKE CENTER FOR NURSING EDUCATION

Nursing offers a unique opportunity to find personal fulfillment and purpose. The baccalaureate prepared professional nurse plays a vital role in health care. Through service to humanity, the nurse earns and enjoys a deep sense of personal satisfaction and accomplishment.

The professional nurse today can create new and expanding roles in a variety of community or acute care settings. The developing areas of preventive care and health maintenance are constantly enlarging the scope of professional practice.

The increasing complexities and the expanding responsibilities have placed the professional nurse in a key position in society. The depth and breadth of baccalaureate education offers the future nurse practitioner a maximum range of opportunities and provides excellent preparation for graduate study. This foundation is developed in the nursing major by means of a wide range of selected courses and related clinical laboratory experiences. The liberal arts curriculum offers a framework to aid in understanding complex factors which influence mankind and his environment.

Director & Associate Professor of Nursing; Michael Armstrong, Ph.D.; Diane L. Cherney, M.S.N.; Lynne O'Donnell, M.S.N.

YOUR FUTURE IN NURSING

In nursing, as in many professions, a college education lays the foundation for professional achievement and for personal and career satisfaction. A college education with a major in nursing is the key that can open the door to your career in professional nursing. Graduates of an accredited college program in professional nursing are prepared to give high-quality care to patients and their families and to direct the nursing care given by other team members working with them. Graduates are qualified for employment as beginning level professional practitioners in a variety of settings: homes, community health agencies, hospitals, extended care facilities, the military homes, and others. Graduates of the baccalaureate nursing program have the educational background necessary for graduate study in nursing at the masters level; thus, if they wish, they may move more rapidly to the most challenging, demanding and rewarding opportunities in nursing, teaching, administration, clinical specialization, or research for which masters education is a requirement.

THE PHILOSOPHY DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of Philosophy offers a comprehensive program for students who are majoring in Philosophy and who are interested in such graduate programs as theology, law, and the teaching of philosophy.

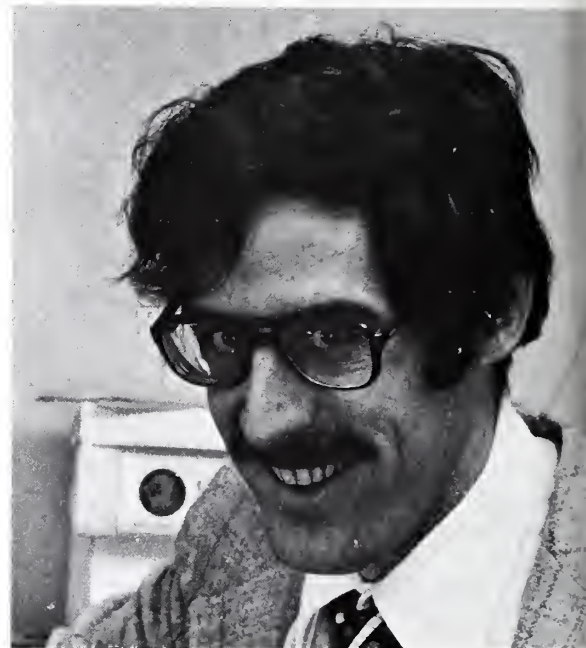

The Department provides, as a matter of policy, the opportunity for students to become exposed to and to develop interest in all various approaches to philosophy currently viable. This policy is thought to advance the primary purpose of providing an atmosphere in which the student is encouraged to achieve the abilities required for applying philosophical principles and analysis in the understanding of present-day problems and the evaluation of proposal for their resolution.

YOUR FUTURE IN PHILOSOPHY

Majors in Philosophy tend to pursue a second major in preparation for graduate school, including advanced work in specific areas such as law and theology. Philosophy majors are currently working in civil service careers, education (limited opportunities), and fields related to the social sciences.

Robert J. Clark, Ph.D. Chairperson of Philosophy Department.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT: L. to R. Rich Walker; M. Eileen Hackman, Chairperson; William Walton; Ron Wellman, Athletic Director. Missing: Allen Ackerman; Michael Caruso; Alvin H. Hanke.

THE PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT

The Physical Education Department offers Elmhurst College students and the department's majors a comprehensive program in physical education. Four men and two women, with several part-time persons, administrate the work of the Department, which is segmented into: the physical education major program, service courses for all students, intramural sports, and intercollegiate athletics.

YOUR FUTURE IN PHYSICAL EDUCATION

With the increase in leisure time, many opportunities are arising for professionally educated personnel in all areas of physical education and related fields. A degree with a major in physical education would qualify the student to find employment in public schools, city playgrounds and recreational programs, camps, clubs, church recreation, industrial recreation, pools, YWCAs and YMCAs.

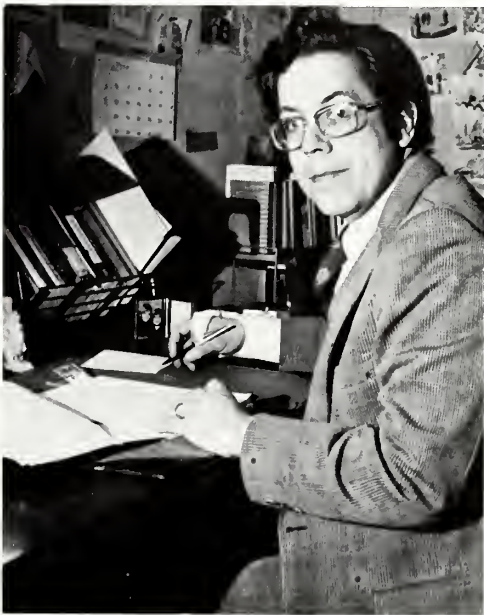

THE PHYSICS DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT AND FACILITIES

Through an extensive laboratory program and a close student-faculty relationship, the Physics Department seeks to provide each student with strong preparation for a career in physics, astronomy, atmospheric science, engineering, or material science. The Department is well-equipped to carry out this program. Located in the College Science Center are: advanced instructional laboratories; machine, electronics, and woodworking shops; and a darkroom. One laboratory is devoted to the Department's three electron microscopes. A separate building on the north end of the campus houses our 750,000-volt and 2.4 million-volt nuclear accelerators. These instruments, in conjunction with the electron microscopes, are used by students and faculty to study the effects of charged particle irradiation on materials. The Department is also involved in several high energy particle physics experiments at Argonne National Laboratory. These experiments are being carried out in cooperation with the University of Chicago, Ohio State University, the University of Illinois, Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, and Argonne. Physics majors also are engaged in studies at Fermilab. Students are encouraged to participate in all phases of these research projects as part of their training.

YOUR FUTURE IN PHYSICS

Students with majors in Physics are prepared for graduate school as well as for careers in teaching, research, and industry. Most Elmhurst Physics graduates go on for additional graduate-level work, studying at universities such as Northwestern, Stanford, Cornell, Minnesota, Utah, Ohio State, etc. Those who did not continue on for an advanced degree often enter industry or a national laboratory, usually beginning as a technical assistant. Since 1971, every student graduating from Elmhurst in Physics has either been accepted by a graduate school with financial assistance or has had one or more jobs available. Career prospects in science and engineering are currently excellent.

THE POLITICAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT

Political Science is one of the major disciplines included in the Social Sciences. The acquisition of some knowledge and understanding in this field is an essential part of any liberal arts approach to the problems of the modern world.

The Department of Political Science at Elmhurst offers a variety of courses in the various sub-disciplines involved. These include American Government, Comparative Government, Political Theory, Public Administration, International Politics, Political Parties, Constitutional Law and related courses. Offerings are especially designed to meet the needs of students interested in careers in government, the law, teaching, and business. Special intern courses in public administration provide direct experience in local government as a supplement to classroom experience.

YOUR FUTURE IN POLITICAL SCIENCE

Many Elmhurst College Political Science students have made excellent records in law schools. Many have gone on to private practice, business, and government. One is currently serving as a federal judge. Some are teaching in high schools, colleges, and universities. One served as an administrative assistant to the Governor of Kansas and more recently as Director of the Eisenhower Memorial Library. A number have gone on to city management. Several recent graduates are entering careers in government administration at local, state, and federal levels.

THE PSYCHOLOGY DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of Psychology at Elmhurst College recognizes and strives to meet the individual student's goals and needs by encouraging a broad and systematic inquiry about one's self and others.

The faculty in the Department is diverse in theoretical orientation and applied experience. Seven full-time and several part-time faculty provide ample opportunity for students to learn as individuals, to have close contact with their teachers and to develop, without doctrinaire pressure, their own orientation to behavior and human experience based upon the principles of psychology.

The Department has a variety of field experience and practicum opportunities offering on-site involvement in community mental health and other service organizations, opportunities for independent study, and facilities for laboratory research. There is an active chapter of Psi Chi, the national honor society in psychology, which sponsors a variety of activities of interest to the psychology student. Memberships are available to qualified students, as well as associate memberships for interested students.

YOUR FUTURE IN PSYCHOLOGY

Students with majors in Psychology have numerous options available to them upon graduation. A number of graduates continue their studies and receive advanced degrees in Psychology. Many students embark on careers such as community workers, paraprofessional mental health workers, research assistants, or as managers in various settings. Still others find their work in Psychology good preparation to enter professional fields such as Law, Medicine, or the Ministry.

THE SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT

The Sociology Department offers a wide variety of courses in sociology, anthropology and social work for nonmajors and sociology minors as well as sociology majors. Majors may specialize, if they wish, in criminology, human services or in an interdepartmental major in organizational behavior. The department has three full-time faculty—Dr. Brenda Forster, Ms. Catherine Key and Dr. James P. Smith, Chairperson. Many courses in the department include applied field projects using resources available in the Chicago metropolitan area. Students also have opportunities to do independent study and research projects as well as field placements in various social service agencies.

SOCIOLOGY DEPARTMENT: L to R. Catherine M. Key, M.A.; James Patrick Smith, Ph.D., Chairperson of Sociology Department; Brenda Forster, Ph.D. Missing: Judith Lorenzi, M.S.W.

THE SPEECH COMMUNICATION DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT AND FACILITIES

Four majors are offered by the Department of Speech Communication. A student may major in Speech Communication, in Theatre, in Speech Education, or in Speech/Language Pathology.

In the co-curricular area, the Department offers opportunities for the student to gain practical experience in speech, radio, theatre and speech pathology.

THE THEOLOGY AND RELIGION DEPARTMENT

THE DEPARTMENT

Theology is the disciplined study of the faith and life of a religious community. The focus of the Department's work is on probing the relationships between Christian faith and the contemporary world of learning and living. The Department also surveys the world's living religions and their involvement in the human struggle for meaning, justice, and hope.

Included within this field is the study of the educational work of the Christian church. The Department seeks to deal with the theological foundations of that work together with the practical questions of developing a viable educational ministry.

THEOLOGY DEPARTMENT: L. to R. Armin H. Limper, Ph.D.; Chairperson of the Theology Department; Ronald G. Goetz, Ph.D.; Peter M. Schmichen, Ph.D.; James Barry, Ph.D.

In speech and radio, the College station, WRSE-FM, is operated by the students and broadcasts to the College and community. The station offers a wide variety of programming from underground music to discussions of contemporary problems. Through WRSE-FM, students gain experience in all phases of broadcasting, writing, news copy, engineering, announcing, program planning, and station management. Speech students also participate in occasional speech contests with entrants in duet acting, oral interpretation, and prose and poetry readings.

In theatre, students supplement their academic programs through participation, on stage or back stage, in major and minor productions. Plans for the 1980-81 season include the following: Man of La Mancha, The Gingerbread Lady, The House of Blue Leaves, and an oral interpretation Reading Hour. Through the Elmhurst College Theatre, students gain experience in acting, design, construction and, in general, working in all phases of theater arts. The College sponsors a chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, National Theatre Honorary.

In Speech Pathology, students provide therapy for children and adults in the Speech Clinic, supervised by the Speech Clinic staff. The Clinic offers a wide variety of experiences for the undergraduate major in Speech and Language Pathology, including participation in diagnostic evaluations, screening tests of speech and hearing, and conferences and training sessions for parents.

YOUR FUTURE IN SPEECH COMMUNICATION

According to a recent national survey, college graduates with speech communication degrees have entered a wide variety of positions. In business and industry, graduates are working in public relations, personnel, management, sales and marketing, advertising, industrial and labor relations, research and education. In government and social services, graduates are in social work, city planning, community development, administration, public office, internal revenue, volunteer agencies and fund-raising and information services.

Speech communication graduates are also teaching at all levels and working in administration, state and federal education departments, education testing, counseling, consulting and research. In the media and performing arts, jobs are available in theatre management, performance, radio-television production and management, newscasting, and community theatre development.

Speech and language pathologists and audiologists provide services in public schools, colleges and universities, public and private speech and hearing clinics, state health or education departments, hospitals, private practices, and many areas of research. The majority of speech and language pathologists and audiologists are employed in public school programs with colleges and universities being the second largest employer of these professionals.

THE URBAN STUDIES PROGRAM

THE PROGRAM

The Urban Studies program is designed to provide the student with an interdisciplinary, career-focused major. An integral part of the program is the use of the Greater Chicagoland Area as a laboratory for study. Field trips, guest speakers, and practical experiences combined with classroom instruction and research projects provide the student with a complete learning experience.

The student is encouraged to develop a major which meets his or her need and specific interest. This may be accomplished by supplementing the Urban Studies core courses with courses from departments such as: Geography, Political Science, and Sociology.

Andrew K. Prinz, Ph.D., Director of Urban Studies Program.

LORI DALESANDRO 1981 ELMS EDITOR

To sum up in words what this book is all about—my roommate Tisa Rebeschini—who has observed the work and effort behind the Elms, has described it in these words

For some the ending of this school year means new adventures and experiences.
For others it's another step forward to their life goals.

For each graduate it means leaving a place that they once called home.
It means leaving friends and dusty dorm rooms that once were full of life.

As each student turns back to bid their last farewell, each one will remember something different.
For many the memory of finals week will pop into their mind as they remember how much they just wanted to quit . . . but didn't.

So now the feeling of victory will overcome them as they walk out into the world to take their place on societies wheel of life.
But for the undergraduates—new hope and patience fill our minds as we edge closer to our goals.

Sure, we too will want to quit and throw the no-doz out the window, along with our books, but we will succeed as long as we want to.

And to the class of '81 we will leave them with this . . .

A memory is everything you've done, hoped for, and achieved

May you always remember.

One last Thank-You goes to Mr. Dick Moore, yearbook representative, for his patience and guidance to complete this book.
